	All matters are evaluated on a case-by-case basis. Reservation or rights letter are issued only when warranted by the unique circumstances of a particular situation.	Aspen's position is not to issue ROR letters unless there is a responsible and prudent reason for doing so.	In the rare cases where a reservation of right letter is issued, it is a result of the allegations of the complaint.	issued on most if not all claims as a preliminary correspondence subject to receiving full information on the claims	Case by case depending upon the specific facts and applicable law.	We issue a reservation of rights when allegations presented with a claim made suggest it is appropriate to do so. We do not issue a "blanket" reservation of rights letter as standard practice, as do some other carriers.	A "reservation of rights" letter will only be issued after multiple conversations with the insured when evidence suggests there may be a coverage issue which could bar or limit coverage. If a "reservation of rights" letter is issued, it will still allow the insured to provide additional information at a later date for consideration	All claim matters are reviewed on a case-by-case basis. We only issue a reservation of rights letter when the situation warrants and only after a thorough discussion with the insured and insurance broker	A statement of the available coverage is provided to the Insured on every claim.	Reservation of rights letters are used whenever there is a potential question of coverage under a policy.	Generally, Liberty's position is not to issue an ROR, unless a Claims professional determines that a letter is necessary after a review of the claim.	Use when warranted	Prior to sending a reservation of rights letter, a call is made to both the insured and the broker to discuss.	Its a case by case basis when appropriate.

	During the underwriting process, the insured may request certain counsel be retained for any claims. If the company is agreeable, this can be endorsed to the policy.
